Campaign for
No Hate Speech
Online

Expression of interest

National Foundation for Civil Society Development Fund Operator the NGO Programme in Croatia within European Economic Area and Norway Grants which are used to finance various forms of supporting the development of civil society in 16 Beneficiary States. One of acitivities is to support young bloggers in their attempt to prevent hate speech on-line.

As a result of this Call for expression of interests the National Foundation will select up to 10 young bloggers who will work on the Campaign to prevent hate speech Online in Croatia.

Young People Combating Hate Speech Online is a project being run by the Council of Europe's youth sector from 2012 to 2014. It aims to stimulate positive change in society preventing hate speech by advocating for more tolerant and inclusive forms of communication on-line, most of all through blogs as an individual form of expressing their opinion.

Who can apply?

Croatian citizens between 18 and 30 years old.

Young people that are already writing their own blogs will have a certain advantage in this Call for proposals. Nevertheless, all young people that don't have their own blogs but are willing to start one and have to this date written essays or short stories through which they advocated no hate speech can apply to this Call.

All selected candidates are expected to participate in 3 three day workshops in Croatia and abroad in 2015, designing the campaign for no hate speech on-line in Croatia and be individually engaged in promoting tolerance and prevention of hate speech through written blogs.

National Foundation will through the NGO Programme in Croatia within European Economic Area and Norway Grants cover the costs of organizing the workshops, travel costs and also cost of accommodation, food and other basic costs.

Deadline for the submission of applications: 18th of March 2015
